

James Michael Lafferty

CEO, Speaker, Philanthropist, Coach

With a marketing and general management career that spans over a quarter of a century, James Lafferty is among the top global experts on business-building, marketing and branding particularly in emerging markets. He has had a long and successful career building businesses and organizations across five continents for some of the world's leading fast-moving consumer goods companies.

Starting off his career as a professional athletics coach, James began his lengthy career at Procter & Gamble, where he sprinted through the ranks, becoming a top-rated Brand Manager on the US business; followed by Head of Marketing for North Africa; Head of Marketing for Poland and the Baltic States; and then was appointed the first-ever General Manager for P&G's "Near East" businesses in Israel, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and the West Bank; where James established the initial distribution models that are still in place, making P&G the dominant market leader in these challenging markets. From there, James went onto become the CEO for P&G's Poland and Baltic States Business, Vice-president of Paper in Western Europe and lastly, CEO of the Philippines arm of P&G, where he in addition headed up new business development for all of Asia.

After 24 successful years at Procter & Gamble, James went on to assume leadership roles at two other prominent multi-national, fast-moving consumer goods companies, including CEO of Coca Cola for Nigeria and the CEO of British American Tobacco for the Philippines. James is presently CEO of Fine Hygienic Holding, a global leader in consumer paper products sold in over 75 countries worldwide. A true rarity in his sphere, unlike the standard consultant, James conducts multiple seminars and training events as a working CEO across the globe—enabling him to lift from real life experiences in real time. James has held seminars for some of the world's largest corporations, including P&G, Coca Cola, HP, Newell Rubbermaid, Nestlé, Microsoft, GE, Hershey's, Wal-Mart, Target, Intuit as well as many other global Fortune500 companies, and is consistently rated as the highest-scoring speaker and trainer. Not content to let his athletic passions idle, James continues to coach professionally, having coached national athletes in his native USA as well as Germany, France, Nigeria and the Philippines. James was most recently coach of the Philippines Olympic Track and Field team in the 2016 Rio Olympic Games. James currently resides in Dubai, UAE and still competes as both a runner and as a national champion weightlifter.

*“Losers quit when they're tired; Winners quit when they've won;
Champions quit when they're dead.”*